Encyclopedia Of Rusyn History And Culture

Synopsis

The Carpatho-Rusyns are central European people, numbering approximately 1.2 million, who live within the borders of five states: Poland, Slovakia, Ukraine, Romania, and Hungary. They have never had a state of their own. Disregarded and suppressed by most governments that ruled over them in the past, the Rusyn people have had to fight to retain their identity, culture, and language. This work is an attempt to redress the loss of historical memory and knowledge caused by decades of repression by investigating and explaining the historical past and culture of Rusyns in all countries where they live, including immigrant communities in the United States, Canada, and Yugoslavia. The encyclopedia contains over 1,100 alphabetically arranged entries in areas such as individuals, organizations, political parties, periodicals, historical terms, geographic regions, historical events, and on themes such as architecture, archaeology, cinema, communism, ethnography, genealogy, geography and economy, historiography, history, the internet, language, literature, nationalism, printing and publishing, and radio and television. The first encyclopedic work on Rusyns to appear in English, this book has already proven to be an indispensable resource for European and Slavic studies specialists, and for general readers interested in international relations and nationalism. The Revised and Expanded Edition has been fully updated: New data and references have been provided for most existing entries and many entirely new entries have been added.

Customer Reviews

'The Encyclopedia of Rusyn History and Culture is a most impressive endeavour; it is factual, well written and organized, and serves as a much-needed survey of the Rusyn people and the essential elements of their culture and history.' (Aleksey Gibson, Project Director, The St. Petersburg International Centre for Preservation and member of the Carpatho-Rusyn Society.)

Paul Robert Magocsi, FRSC, is professor of history and political science and holds the John Yaremko Chair of Ukrainian Studies at the University of Toronto. Ivan Pop is former distinguished research fellow at the Institute of Slavic and Balkan Studies in Moscow.

hello Great..Fast arrival...very happy with the book i have been looking for this one.Thank you very much and good night.yes

Although this item was a bit pricey, it is well worth it if you are Carpatho-Rusyn descent and you're interested in your heritage. Makes a great coffee table book. Thoroughly enjoying it.
