Adequate but not first rate. Good for scratch work but not archival.

Great pad, thick paper, good quality, graphed on both sides. There is a margin all the way around the graph. This was undesirable at first, but now I am beginning to see the use for it. I am use to the Meade type composition notebooks. The pages are numbered 1 to 100 front and back, which can be useful. I haven't tried but the spine seems to be hemmed in a way so that pages can be torn out without others coming out, too. But that will screw up the numbering unless you tear from the back. They are not perforated so be careful.

Beautiful sturdy paper. The grid is even and clear. It even has a little white border all around the page which makes it look neat and elegant, as well as having the practical purpose of allowing a child to know their start / end point (as opposed to graph paper whose grids runs off the page). Have used it for kids of various ages e.g. for learning multiplication, coordinates, and even art patterns.

It's a notebook. Does what it needs to do.

Kid enjoys using it for math class

Works great for my needs. Doesn't fray easily like other brands.

Good notebook, but it's not perforated on the edges for clean removal. Luckily, I don't usually tear pages out of it.

Perfect! Much larger than expected and the cover is a plastic vs cardboard so verr durable.
