I just started reading your book and let me first say, "I love the opening". Being a former caregiver in both institutional and private home settings, I am enjoying what this book has to offer. Unfortunately elderly abuse continues rampant throughout today's society and I applaud Ms. Lauderdale for giving a voice to this often times, silent population.

I found the book to have very valuable information for the elderly plus the " boomers" who care for them. As people age they need to prepare for what is, in effect, their short future. Janice Lauderdale has done excellent research on things that seem to happen often to older people who are not as alert as they were in their younger days.

Very useful resources in a great easy to read format. This book supports this new new phase of life which has new health, legal, and business challenges. Mrs. Lauderdale sounds the alarm, and urges Boomers to set goals, and to be aware the pitfalls. The new Blog is essential to keep us abreast of changes and links to other resources .

In as much as my generation of baby boomers reaching our Senior Years, I find it imperative we strengthen ourselves with knowledge and protection of the predators towards the elderly. Thank you, Mrs. Lauderdale for being an unyielding advocate and providing this valuable tool.

Janice Lauderdale has once again showered a bright light on an ugly topic. More and more we hear instances of family members committing unspeakable acts on those they are supposed to love. Ms. Lauderdale's mission is to bring awareness to this issue that many baby boomers who are seniors must deal with and to give them tools to arm themselves with. Great read!

I just started reading this book and it is a very sobering yet important depiction of what can happen if one does not prepare ahead to protect their assets and ensure they have the needed resources for the balance of there days. This is an important work.

I want to thank Mrs. Lauderdale for having the insight to write this unforgettable book. For years this problem has been building up in families but, no one wanted to bring it upfront and personal. To write a book of this magnitude, one would have had to lived a part of it. Our Seniors for years have been put on the back burner because, now, they are old and who cares?Well, our seniors are the backbone of this country. Without them, where would we be? Our children go away and live their lives, only to return home to destroy ours. We need to protect our Seniors and love them as they loved us. Mrs. Lauderdale showed us in her book, how easy it is for our Seniors to get caught up loving and lose sight of their future. When you can't trust your family, who can you trust? Just know that family will screw you quicker than a stranger. Her book, Baby Boomers and Seniors is a must have for Hospitals, Senior Citizen homes, Rest homes and your home. Thank you Mrs. Lauderdale for being strong enough to tell it like it is. Be blessed and continue to write. Marjelene

Kudos to Janice Lauderdale for writing this book from her personal experience with elder abuse. Her courage to expose family shame and deception indicates the depth of her concern for the well-being of baby boomers. With a senior's child being the most likely perpetrator of domestic abuse 47% of the time, she warns us to beware of our own flesh and blood, as well as strangers. Her story is proof that the Bible is true when it states, "A man's enemies will be the members of his own household" (Matthew 10:36). So, in addition to asking you to raise your discernment antennae, she tells you where to find the support you need when your beloved bosom babies attempt to suck you dry.
